

Martin Rutherford KC

Martin is an expert in defending cases involving allegations of Murder, serious organised crime, multi-million pound fraud, and complex and emotive allegations of sexual assault. Martin has also appeared in coroners inquests and has recently advised the Football Association in respect of disciplinary matters concerning a Premier League footballer. Meticulous with detail, Martin's reputation is simply that of an outstanding advocate and a superb courtroom tactician.

Martin understands the power of social media and is fully aware of its advantages. However, he chooses not to advertise within it because of its tendency to allow people to exaggerate their own abilities. His work comes instead primarily from first-hand sources, particularly solicitors and/or clients who see him appear in court as a result of which they ask him to appear for them. Whilst their reasons for doing so are many, the dominant ones appear to be a desire to boost their chances of an acquittal, or alternatively a desire to achieve a reduction in sentence.

Other Experience

Martin is regularly asked by Lincoln's Inn to train advocacy to pupil barristers and qualified barristers alike.

“Martin is a real master in the art of advocacy. With quiet calm confidence he commands the courtroom and when it comes to trial strategy he is a most astute tactician. He is one of the most humble and down-to-earth silks you will ever meet and his clients consider him to be a legal legend.” (Legal 500, 2023)

“His disarming nature coupled with his assured delivery make him a formidable opponent in the most serious of cases. Calm under pressure. Excellent rapport with the jury. Strategic thinker. Tactically astute. Hard-working. Highly personable.” (Legal 500, 2021)

“His ability to spot a point others might have missed and deploy it to maximum effect is compelling.” (Legal 500, 2020)

“He instinctively knows how to run and present a case.” (Legal 500, 2019)
